DETAILED ACTION

This action is in response to Amendment A filed July 29, 2003. Claims 1-3 and 5-6 have been canceled and claim 4 has been amended as requested by the applicant.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takuzo (JP 59-159109) in view of Obuchi (US 6,511,756).

Takuzo teaches a polarizer comprising sticking two protective films to opposite surfaces of a polyvinyl alcohol polarizing element so that the polyvinyl alcohol polarizing element is held between the two protective films, wherein the two protective films are stuck under the condition that a moisture content of the polyvinyl alcohol polarizing element is adjust to be not higher than 15% by weight (abstract lines 6-12). Takuzo states the use of a PVA having a moisture content of less than 5% (abstract lines 6-7). Takuzo further states the protective films are "formed into a bag shape and the polarizing film is sealed hermetically into said bag," (abstract line 10) thus the protective films are attached to both sides of the PVA polarizing element. Takuzo further states that the protective film is a polymer (abstract line 9) with low moisture permeability (abstract lines 11-12). Takuzo lacks specific reference to the protective film having the claimed permeability. Obuchi teaches the use of a protective film with a moisture permeability in the range of 5 to 300 ( $\text{g/m}^2 \cdot 24\text{h}$ ) at  $40^\circ\text{C} \times 90\% \text{ RH}$  (Table 7 Example 40) and wherein the protective film is made of a resin selected from the group consisting of polyester resin, polyimide resin, a norbornene resin and a polyolefin resin (col. 28 lines 2-3). Obuchi states that the permeability of the film is between 4 and 6  $\text{g/m}^2 \cdot 24\text{h}$  at  $40^\circ\text{C} \times 90\% \text{ RH}$ , which overlaps the claimed range of 5 to 300 (Table 7; col. 53 lines 33-34). Obuchi further states that the resin is a cyclic olefin resin (col. 28 lines 2-3). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the Obuchi protective film form the protective film over the Takuzo PVA polarizer for the purpose of creating a protective film with will not allow moisture to pass through the film and thus damage the polarizing element.
